

Print'O'Matic

3D Printing Automat restaurant. The website will a way to advertise and draw attention to the restaurant proper showing off common dishes, culinary experience, extra merge, partner page ect. The restaurant is mostly made to be an automated experience, you come in, sit, a little robot with a screen comes in to take your order, customize your food and assigns your meal to a printing bay mounted into the wall. You can watch your food be prepared then have the robot deliver it to your table, complete automation.

the Food and images displayed on the website will be mostly Molecular gastronomy based and possibly cartoony illustrated for my own entertainment. Large tech bro, corporate feel, like it wants to darken your soul with your patronage, but in a loose your humanity in the wash of chrome and techno babble.
