

Proposal

For my research project, I would like to do a website about the history of EDM music. I would examine the various genres and the artists associated with them. Additionally, I would explore their origins and provide a timeline of their development. On the homepage, I would explain what EDM music is and offer some insights about it. I would also include a navigation bar with links to sections on history, genres, photos, and artists. Throughout the years, I will discuss which genres were most popular at that time. I might discuss the scene a little bit, but I will mostly be focusing on the music itself and the artist.

In the history section, I will cover the evolution of EDM from the 1970s to today. The genres section will explain each subgenre and provide examples of notable artists. In the photos section, I'll feature images with captions describing each one. Finally, the artists section will highlight some of the top performers, including biographies and music samples. Pictures and videos will consist of artists and concerts.
