

Project Proposal

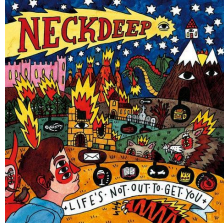

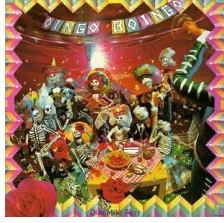

For this gallery project, I would like to display album cover art, with a specific focus on artwork that is not photographic in nature. This will include clay sculpture, digital collage, and illustration. Some artists I would like to include are Joe Hawley, Ricardo Cavolo, Jayme Odgers/Celeste Williams, Will Wood, Clare Hooper, Breanna O'Neal, and Ming Doyle. Since Los Angeles, California, is a hot spot for music producers, this fictional show will take place there.

The name of the showing will be Seeing Sounds, or something else relating to the process of visualizing and advertising music. I want the aesthetics of the website to be similar to a record store. Organized by genre with the album art firmly on display. A dingy sort of tech store, almost, with motifs of old record boxes, vinyl sleeves, CD racks, and aux cords. While we are indeed in a digital age, and album art is being made for smaller viewing on a screen or streaming app, album art is still just art, and is deserving of being displayed like it used to.
