

I decided to change the topic of my research to be about the Best Picture awards at the Oscars because my other idea required too much research, and it was something that I couldn't form a full plan around. Right now, I plan on having an about section that describes what the Oscars/Academy Awards are, and it also goes into what the best picture category is. I am going to briefly talk about each movie that has won the award and divide them into sections that will be in the navigation bar. (1927-1949, 1950-1979, 1980-1999, 2000-2023). Also in the navigation bar will be the Home and About section. I don't think I will need a logo for this but I'm not sure at this moment. My audience will probably be people interested in movies or award shows. I want to keep the Oscar's current color theme of black and gold/dark yellow on my website unless it's a copyright infringement.