Research Project Topic: The history of piercings

For project two I will create an informative website based on the history of piercings.

My targeted audience is people who have or are interested in piercings/body modification. I think the best way to present my information is to have different sections going into depth about how piercings came to be, what cultures involve piercings, what kind of piercings there are/some examples, and showing what type of material can be used for them. I plan on designing a logo to go with my site and having elements of maybe the shape of a certain piercing to add creativity to it. As for my images, I will be getting some from the web and I might make a few illustrations as well. My goal for this site is to inform the reader basic knowledge about piercings and how it has impacted culture while having an aesthetically pleasing layout to look at.
